There are times when a real man must stay and fight instead of running, no matter what. Like now, when a friend's true dream is laughed at.